

Podcast UNESCO RILA: The sounds of integration
Episode 10: Comforting Sounds (06/07/2021)

Speaker 1: Gameli Tordzro - Artist in Residence of The UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts

“Welcome to the podcast series of the UNESCO chair in refugee integration through languages and arts, we bring you sounds to engage with you, and invite you to think with us.”

Speaker 2: Tawona Sitholé - Artist in Residence of The UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts

“Hi everyone, my name is Ganyamatopé or some of you may know me by my plain name Tawona Sitholé, I’m Artist in Residence with the UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts at the University of Glasgow. In this episode you will be listening to a selection of comforting sounds, collected during a workshop I led at the UNESCO RILA Spring School, titled The Arts of Integrating 2021. The question is: can you guess what these sounds are?”

[sounds play]

“Thank you so much for listening and I hope you enjoyed trying to work out those sounds. If you would like to check your answers, you can find them in the show notes on the UNESCO RILA website. The quick link is bit.ly/RILA\_podcast. Thank you and see you very soon. Hekani.”

Speaker: Gameli Tordzro

“Thank you for listening to the podcast of the UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and Arts, a podcast series to make you think. More information about our work can be found on the website of the University of Glasgow www.gla.ac.uk. Thank you very much.”

Bumbiro re Nyika mu
Kudzidza, Ruzivo,
Tsika ne Magariro

Chigaro che Bumbiro re Nyika mu Kudzidza, Ruzivo, Tsika ne Magariro, chakanangana ne Basa reku Gashirwa kwe
Vapoteri maererano ne Mitauro ne Umhare